

About Us

Beginning in 1995 as a speaker's bureau, Ron Morris Seminars provided Saskatoon businesses with high end speakers from around North America. While building the foundations of his business, Ron Morris attained his professional speaking designation becoming another talent resource for the company.

In 2003, looking to grow the business, Ron brought in Mathew Cey as a partner. Mathew's expertise would expand the company's offerings and effectively increase marketing to the business sector. The company began to experience the desired growth and in 2008 re-branded themselves to "Morris Interactive". The focus of Morris Interactive was to increase utilization of speakers and trainers, as well as adoption of 150 online training courses that were developed by some of North America's leading E-Learning Authors.

Today, Morris Interactive brings extensive experience, and a deep pool of product and service offerings in the topical areas of Leadership, Customer Service, Sales, Communication, and Safety programs that are facilitated by subject matter experts. Employing curriculum developers gives them the ability to customize both live and online training programs for their clients. The company rounds out its services with over 150, self-paced, online training programs in the areas of Professional Development, Safety, and Computer Training.

Morris Interactive is proud to have a number of professionals working with us to provide you with the best training facilitation and coaching available.
